SYNOPSIS

Daniel Nash, a young widower drifting through life takes a job remodeling an isolated, old house in the Louisiana bayou. His life takes a sudden terrifying turn when an 18- year-old-woman staggers out of the misty darkness, bloodied and beaten. She desperately pleads for Daniel's help and warns him that her attacker is right behind her.

Daniel takes the distraught young woman in, but while he is searching for his phone to call for help, he hears her blood-curdling scream from the other room. Daniel frantically searches the disorienting old house but is unable to find the mysterious young woman or her attacker.

Who was she? Who was trying to kill her? Did she get away? The disturbing incident shakes Daniel to the core and sends him on an obsessive quest in which Daniel tries to change the outcome of a murder that occurred ten year earlier.

WHO IS DANIEL?

Daniel is drifting along, disillusioned and rootless after the death of his wife until he arrives at the house that will change his life forever.
